Exploration Results and Future Developments (Raglan Properties)

In late September, the Company completed its 2008 nickel-copper-cobalt-PGE sulphide exploration program in the Raglan Belt, northern Quebec consisting of 11,992 metres of core drilling, a large remote sensing program, a regional geology and sampling program, and processing and analysis of VTEM geophysical data collected in 2007. The program was successful with the highlight discovery of the new Mystery Ni-Cu-Co-PGE deposit delineated over 175 metres of strike length and to depths of more than 300 m on some sections, and with additional intersections at the Sylvie and R2 deposit areas.

Two holes highlight the new Mystery zone; DDH MYS08-03 intersected 131 m, from 78 to 209 m, of net-textured and massive sulphides with an average assay of 0.81% Ni, 0.87% Cu and 3.01 g/t PGE+Au, and DDH MYS08-05 intersected 46 m from 186 to 232 m, of 0.74% Ni, 1.58% Cu, 6.80 g/t PGE+Au including 4 m of 41.30 g/t PGE+Au. DDH MYS08-031 intersected 76.3 metres of sulphides from 135.0 to 211.3 metres downhole with an average grade of 0.91% Ni, 1.11% Cu and 2.94 g/t PGE+Au including an intersection near the top of the hole of 1.2 metres from 34.9 to 36.1 metres downhole with an average grade of 3.11% Ni, 0.46% Cu and 7.01 g/t PGE+Au. Details of the Mystery results, including plans, sections and composited assays, are on the company's website at www.goldbrookventures.com.

Mapping, surface rock geochemistry and drilling in the Mystery area provides evidence of multiple mineralized zones and/or stratigraphic horizons at the locality. This area warrants further analysis of geology, rock geochemistry and geophysical data in preparation for in-fill and expansion drilling to be executed in 2009.

The Getty and Sylvie deposits also warrant further investigation to establish additional drill targets to expand these two known and important deposits to the Raglan project. The same investigation is warranted for the Timtu and Pad-1/R2 deposit areas. In addition, are numerous other areas of interest/showings along the Belanger trend that warrant analysis and drill targeting. Some of these areas are also candidates for further geophysical surveys and/or analysis with methods such as gravity and detailed walking magnetics.

Remote sensing surveys conducted over the GBK property in 2008 provide a large amount of spectral data and high resolution photography that may help identify geological structures and areas of surface mineralization and analyses of this information is ongoing.

The Company looks forward to a 15,000 metre drilling program in 2009 that will include an additional drill rig capable of testing the Mystery and other zones to greater depths. In addition the program will include extensive regional geological mapping and prospecting, and the use of innovative XRF technology for prospecting, mapping and drilling. The program will employ contractors to carry out and evaluate an airborne magnetic and VTEM survey and complete additional evaluation of geophysical and remote sensing surveys carried out in previous field seasons. The 2009 program is designed to explore for new mineralized zones and expand existing zones in order to complete resource estimates on three or possibly more deposits of nickel-copper-cobalt-PGE sulphide along the Belanger trend.

The Company proposes to meet any additional financing requirements through the exercise of outstanding warrants, or arranging other forms of equity financing. 1.13 Changes in Accounting Policies

Effective May 1, 2007, the Company has adopted three new accounting standards related to financial instruments that were issued by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants (“CICA”) in 2005. These accounting policy changes were adopted on a prospective basis with no restatement of prior period financial statements. The new standards and accounting policy changes are as follows:

Financial Instruments – Recognition and Measurement (CICA Handbook Section 3855 and 3561)

In accordance with this new standard the Company now classifies all financial instruments as either held-to-maturity, available-for-sale, held for trading or loans and receivables. Financial assets held to maturity, loans and receivables and financial liabilities other than those held for trading, are measured at amortized cost. Available for-sale instruments are measured at fair value with unrealized gains and losses recognized in other comprehensive loss. Instruments classified as held for trading are measured at fair value with unrealized gains and losses recognized on the statement of loss.

Comprehensive Income (CICA Handbook Section 1530 and 3251)

The standard introduces the concept of comprehensive loss, which consists of net loss and other comprehensive loss. The Company’s financial statements now include a Statement of Comprehensive Loss integrated with the statement of operations, which includes the components of comprehensive loss. For the Company, other comprehensive loss (“OCL”) is comprised of the unrealized gains on available-for-sale financial assets arising during the year.

Cumulated changes in OCI are included in Accumulated Other Comprehensive Income (“AOCI”), which is presented as a new category within shareholders’ equity on the balance sheet.

Hedges (CICA Handbook Section 3865)

The new standard specifies the criteria under which hedge accounting can be applied and how hedge accounting can be executed. The Company has not designated any hedging relationships.

Valuation of Inventory – Impact of adopting Section 3031

The Company has adopted the Section 3031 for the valuation of inventories at the lower of cost and replacement cost.

1.14 Financial Instruments and Other Instruments

For cash and equivalents, accounts receivable, marketable securities, and accounts payable and accrued liabilities, the carrying amounts of these financial instruments approximate their fair value.

Unless otherwise noted, it is management's opinion that the Company is not exposed to significant interest, currency or credit risks arising from these financial statements.

The recoverability of the amounts capitalized for the mineral properties under exploration is dependent upon the determination of economically recoverable ore reserves, the ability to obtain the necessary financing to complete the development, and future profitable production or proceeds from the disposition thereof.
